Serenity and Luxury Await Guests at Newly Renovated Stephanie Inn Owners invested $5 Million to bring first-class accommodations to Cannon Beach

Cannon Beach, Ore.—The Stephanie Inn, the only hotel on the West Coast to be listed as one of the top three best hotels in the country by readers of Condé Nast Traveler, just completed a renovation and is more elegant and stylish than before, with an expansion in services.

“We’ve always had an exceptional product loved by our guests,” said Ryan Snyder, president of Martin Hospitality, the Inn’s parent company. “That was expressed by the readers of Condé Nast Traveler magazine. But we felt we could improve upon the guest experience and we think we’ve achieved that with these updates.”

Several significant changes were made to the Inn. Some rooms were converted into suites; each consisting of a king bed in the bedroom, a queen hide-a-bed in the living room, 1½ baths, gas fireplace, wet bar and patio deck or balcony. Some mountain view rooms were converted into premiere suites, similar to the rooms described above but complete with separate dining areas, creating a feeling of home.

Color themes emerge in each of the newly refurbished rooms; beachy, ocean aqua and brown and warm, inviting, luxuriant red. These schemes are meant to evoke feelings of relaxation and comfort, but with a sense of opulence. Bedspreads in rich jewel colors, lots of fluffy pillows and a spectacular view of the Pacific Ocean, make guests feel like royalty.

“We wanted to blend the old design with the new and create a more contemporary feel,” said Gabriele Heys, interior designer of the project and principal with Abbott Architecture, LLC and Abbott Heys & Associates. “Since we did the original interior design 16 years ago, we had a good sense of what would work and Jan Martin, an owner of the Stephanie Inn, really put her personal touch in all the details.”

The majority of the renovation took place in the bathrooms. Every bathroom in the hotel was updated with unsurpassed materials, including glass tile, Grohe and Moen faucets, high-end ceramic tile, Mediterranean-style light fixtures and Jacuzzi Pure Air baths, which are considered the top-of-the-line for whirlpool bathtubs.

Two new spa treatment rooms have been added to the Inn. Each has a handcrafted wall of water, painstakingly fashioned out of 600 pieces of fused glass, welcomes guests as they walk in, immediately putting them at ease. Each room is bathed in soft light and painted with the soothing colors of the sea. The rooms feature two massage tables for an intimate couples-massage, steam showers or Finnish sauna and deep soaking jetted therapy tubs. Several spa packages are available and a new spa menu has been added featuring light, healthy fare, including fresh prosciutto and melon salad, wild salmon lettuce wraps and a decadent chocolate fondue.

The Star of the Sea Spa Package is the quintessential immersion into deep relaxation. The two and a half hour session begins with an 80 minute massage of your choice, a reflexology massage pampering your feet and hands with heated therapy mitts and a facial rejuvenation massage. You will be able to continue unwinding for a full hour in the treatment room, perhaps soaking in the Jacuzzi tub or enjoying a delicious selection from the spa menu.

The Stephanie Inn Dining Room expanded their gourmet capabilities with extra prep space, a more enhanced daily brunch menu and new lighter menu choices featuring the freshest, local ingredients for a complete Northwest dining experience. Additionally, the Stephanie Inn Dining Room was also fully renovated, including new paint, wallpaper, art work, window coverings, new carpet and upholstery on the chairs.
